EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The document summarises the art and cultural work done to date, and projects planned or committed for the future at Barangaroo.

This document is an update to the Barangaroo Public Art and Cultural Plan by Barangaroo Delivery Authority (BDA) and Lendlease (2015 Art Plan) and they should be read in conjunction.

It provides the methodology to enable Infrastructure NSW (INSW) to implement the 2015 Art Plan, incorporating its aims, objectives, principles, modes and programs.

This 2023 Art Implementation Plan (2023 Art Plan) was commissioned by INSW to uphold the original vision for Barangaroo as a place that inspires people and is a celebrated cultural destination. It applies to all artworks commissioned on and from the date of this document by either INSW or Aqualand.

Given the identified importance of heritage interpretation throughout Barangaroo, the 2023 Art Plan should also be read in conjunction with the Heritage Interpretation Plan (2022), available via the INSW website.

1.1 PROJECT INTRODUCTION

Barangaroo is Sydney’s most ambitious urban renewal project and a new landmark waterfront destination for the city. The twenty-two hectare development takes place on a former industrial site, reclaiming an elemental piece of Sydney Harbour foreshore for transformation into a dynamic cultural, residential, business and civic hub.

This once-in-a-lifetime transformation is led by the NSW Government, partnering with world-leading developers, architects and creators.

Creative responses to Barangaroo’s form, geography, rich history and future inform the dedicated Barangaroo art and culture program that focuses on developing a genuine character and identity. Some public art in private developments has already been developed and delivered for the Barangaroo Precinct. Lendlease, for example, has delivered significant public artworks within the precinct since 2015: shellwall (Jonathan Jones and Esme Timbery), Shadows (Sabine Hornig), and Mermer Waiskeder (Ghost Net Collective). In addition, Lendlease has already commissioned a series of art hoarding projects throughout the building development stages by Australian and international artists. This included Lucy Simpson, Alison Page, Nobumasa Takahashi, Emma Van Leest, Emily Crockford and a number of Studio A artists, and Art Month hoardings by Tony Albert, Karen Black, Reko Rennie and Joan Ross.

The Barangaroo precinct is shaping up to become a definitive harbourside destination for Sydney’s visual arts and culture. It brings together a dynamic program of public art, temporary installations, and creative activations and programs. Public art in the precinct is underpinned by a strong presence of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples’ cultural offerings.

Great precincts don’t emerge overnight. They take time to develop, moving through successive iterations. The duration of their evolution creates the deep social attachment, sense of local ownership and love that all great places have.
1.2 CURATORIAL VISION

THE VISION

Public art and cultural programs at Barangaroo will be contemporary, innovative and of the highest quality. The Precinct will be recognised for its integrated site-specific public art and engaging, dynamic cultural programs. Barangaroo will present countless opportunities for artists to work in collaboration with a broad range of other professions. Public art will be memorable and inspirational and will embrace a range of typologies and materials. Importantly, public art will embody storytelling based on the site’s natural, Aboriginal and maritime heritages.

THE THREE AIMS

1. To enliven the entire Barangaroo precinct with iconic and integrated works of public art that will contribute to the character and design of memorable public spaces.
2. To provide engaging and significant interpretation of the site’s history that reflects and celebrates the many stories of Barangaroo, including the Aboriginal and waterfront histories.
3. To deliver a distinctive program of temporary art and cultural events to embed Barangaroo in Sydney’s, indeed the nation’s, cultural landscape.

METHODOLOGY

INSW has appointed a Barangaroo Public Art Curatorial Advisor (Barangaroo Curator) to provide curatorial advice as required to design teams, and to work with relevant stakeholders to coordinate the planning and delivery of public art across the Precinct.
1.3 HERITAGE INTERPRETATION

INTERPRETIVE THEMES AND STORYLINES

To deliver on the Curatorial Vision and the Three Aims for integrated site-specific public art and heritage interpretation throughout the Precinct, artists and curators are encouraged to consider and respond to the interpretive themes and storylines from the Barangaroo Heritage Interpretation Plan (2022) as part of their artwork concepts.

Artists should consider opportunities to bring cultural and historic knowledge to life in contemporary ways and seek to connect future users to the site’s rich history and provide them with a sense of the communities of its past.

The interpretive themes were crafted to enable thematic interpretation of what makes the Barangaroo precinct historically and culturally significant.

The themes are not constrained to a single subject, a single time, or a single place.

Each theme relates to a range of stories and topics from pre-European history, post-European history, the present and the future of the site. In terms of story-telling, approaches may include consideration of the site’s history and significance in Aboriginal culture, its maritime history, and the incorporation of native plant species.
1.4 WORKING WITH ABORIGINAL AND TORRES STRAIT ISLANDER ARTISTS FOR YANANURALA

The curatorial approach at Barangaroo considers the Yananurala commissions that form part of the City of Sydney’s Eora Journey project, in particular Aboriginal Peoples’ perspective of place that these works will share. Connection to Country is fundamental to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples. Country supports the way of life of the people who occupy it; their practical needs, cultural practices and religious ceremonies – providing meaning, identity and belonging. And it has done so for tens of thousands of years.

For millennia there has been a rich and meaningful cultural life for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples on the land. A sustainable lifestyle not only in harmony with the landscape, but also finding in it significance and a sense of the sacred. By engaging Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander artists and practitioners, aspects of this rich cultural heritage can be revisited and reinterpreted.

Yananurala artworks at Barangaroo will be Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander specific commissions, and their curation will be led by the City of Sydney Yananurala curatorial team, supported by and working with INSW as required.

This 2023 Art Plan also considers and recommends that Barangaroo continue to support Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples through ongoing arts and culture opportunities within the Precinct, which includes appropriate consultation, engagement, representation and employment and respect for their values and perspectives on Country. This means understanding Country, understanding the ecologies that Country supports, the flora and fauna, what traditional land uses are supported by these ecologies, and how place is ritualised with meaning.

ABOUT
The work is a collaboration between Bidjigal/Eora elder and senior artist Esme Timbery and Wiradjuri/Kamilaroi artist Jonathan Jones, and celebrates the important shell-work tradition of La Perouse and the contemporary practice of respected artist Esme Timbery, a fourth-generation shell artist.

It is constructed with multiple 8mm-thick aluminium panels creating a 22.35 x 3.5 metre artwork. Each panel is decorated with a combination of larger-than-life cast aluminium shells welded to the screen adjacent to their corresponding cut-out shell shapes on the panel. The shells are laid out and designed by Aunty Esme, following patterns similar to her celebrated harbour bridges, boxes and booties.

The two artists first met when exhibiting together in a show titled Djalarinji at Manly Art Gallery and Museum in 1998. Since then they have developed a rich dialogue, and in 2001 as part of the Sydney Opera House Message Sticks Festival they collaborated on the special commission of the first shell-worked Sydney Opera House. Jones created the sculptural form and Timbery shelled the work, which is now part of the National Museum of Australia’s collection.

ARTWORK DETAILS
Alison Page and Nik Lachajczak, Wellama, 2019, the Cutaway, Barangaroo Reserve

ARTIST STATEMENT
Wellama means ‘to come back’ in the local language.
In this work, scenes of Eora fisherwomen and camps reference paintings commissioned in the early colony. These have become an important resource for the traditional owners of the Sydney region, whose cultural practices and language were outlawed 100 years after colonisation. While often referred to as ethnographic and romantic visions of traditional life, these paintings are symbolic of the tranquil idyll that existed on the shores of the harbour for millennia. This was life in Sydney for thousands of years.

Wellama explores the practice of traditional knowledge, including the preparation of medicines, management of land with fire and maintenance of seasonal calendars. The work dives in and out of the past and the present to emphasise that 65,000 years ago exists right now and the spirituality is not lost. The young contemporary warrior fishes out of a city fountain and a young girl dives into the depths of the harbour; both searching for and connecting with this potent and ever-present spirit.

ARTWORK DETAILS
Sabine Hornig, Shadows, 2019, Sydney International Towers 1, 2 & 3, Barangaroo South

ABOUT
Shadows is a photographic artwork intervention by Sabine Hornig, commissioned by Lendlease. It forms a 170-metre-long walkway (the Through Site Link) that connects the three International Towers at the heart of Sydney’s Barangaroo South. It consists of transparent images of the native flora of Sydney embedded in the glass of the imposing entrances and exits of the towers.

Inserted into a narrow slice of active public space drawing people from the city centre towards the Sydney Harbour foreshore, the work creates a view through to a different reality. By overlaying organic forms of nature onto the emphatically structured verticals of the skyscrapers and by stacking image upon image back into space, it confronts the new site with a parallel world.

Ancient plant forms of strangler fig, angophora, banksia and gymea suggest how the land may have looked before European settlement. By superimposing timeless forms of nature onto the tall planes of glass of the towers, Hornig’s art connects the new precinct with its ancient past, its natural wonders and its unique ecological treasures. What comes about is a path through the buildings that emphasises the persistence of nature and the resilience of the original land.

Zheng Lu, Porte Cochere Sculpture, 2020
Mr Beam and Preciosa, Atrium Light Sculpture, 2020
Saerom Yoon, Hotel Reception Vase Installation, 2020
Wilkinson Eyre, Hotel Lift Lobby Sculpture, 2020

ABOUT
Artworks at Crown are all site-specific commissions. Of the water-themed sculpture in the forecourt, Chinese artist Zheng Lu writes: “Geological movements and human endeavour have sculpted a foreshore with a long history and distinctive shape. The form of my concept is inspired by these dynamic tidemarks, a visualisation of the path of time and dynamic fluidity of water.”

South Korean artist Saerom Yoon created the installation of vases for the hotel reception. His work is inspired by nature, particularly the colours of sunset and sunrise. It aims to evoke textures that mimic the effect of watercolour painting and reflect the interplay of clouds, calm water and rippling waves.

Danie Mellor, Remembering, 2021-2025, Central Barangaroo Waterfront Hoardings (temporary)

ABOUT
Remembering, created by Australian artist Danie Mellor, adorns the hoarding that runs along the Barangaroo foreshore between Crown Resort and Barangaroo Reserve.

The central themes of Mellor’s artwork are Country, People and Language depicted by imagery of flora that is indigenous to Country on which Barangaroo is sited. Aboriginal women to represent the powerful Aboriginal woman from whom Barangaroo takes its name, and Aboriginal language words.

In Mellor’s own words, “Remembering shows a landscape of Gadigal Country as it may have appeared prior to the colonisation. The environment in the work reflects the indigenous flora of the Sydney region, with elements of the Barangaroo Reserve an integral part of its composition. Affirming and responding to the memory of Cammeraygal woman Barangaroo and the significant role of Aboriginal women in community, figures of female dancers are dynamically presented on the land.”

ARTWORK DETAILS
Ghost Net Collective, Mermer Waiskeder: Stories of the Moving Tide, 2023, Exchange Place, Barangaroo South

ABOUT
Mermer Waiskeder: Stories of the Moving Tide imagines a vibrant fever of eagle rays that have arisen from the depths of Sydney Harbour to encircle the canopy of Exchange Place, Barangaroo.

The eleven rays are hand-stitched and woven with ‘ghost net’ – abandoned fishing nets that have been recovered from the ocean and repurposed into a sculptural installation. Suspended in graceful arcs, the rays cast colourful silhouettes on the ground below, marking what was the original harbour tideline at the time of colonial settlement. At night they are lit from within and above, bathing the square in a luminous blue glow and creating an immersive experience that situates the viewer on an imaginary ocean floor.

Ghost Net Collective is a group of Indigenous and non-Indigenous artists from Cairns, Townsville and Erub Arts in the Torres Strait, working closely with lead artist Lynnette Griffiths. The use of ghost net material speaks to the importance of ocean preservation and the opportunities for regeneration that repurposing presents.

Jumasdi, Upside-Down Garden, 2024, Mercantile Walk, Barangaroo South

ABOUT
Upside-Down Garden is an immersive environment that evokes the transformation from one state to another. It spans 12 metres and is suspended high in an undercroft. The hovering sculptural forms are drawn from botanical, archetypal and mythological worlds. They combine with shadow play and sound to create a magical, alternative reality, providing a moment of wonder within the bustle of Barangaroo.

ARTWORK DETAILS
Mikala Dwyer, Monuments for Fishes, 2024-2025, Watermans Cove, Barangaroo South

ABOUT
Monuments for Fishes responds and respects the rhythm of sea Country, the vast ecology of sea creatures and the history of fishing on Sydney Harbour. It is a celebration of the collective human connection to saltwater and the universal love of fishing.

The abstract quality of Monuments for Fishes allows us to think in many directions. Its forms are accessible and philosophically open. They are vertical and curvaceous—both male and female but also beyond human. A powerful sense of gravity connects them to our bodily schema while their elevation captures the heights of our imagination.

Monumental yet not static, they move with their site rather than against it, swaying languidly with the tides, winds and currents. They are animated by the changing environment and in turn enliven their surroundings, in a relationship of sympathetic movement and a play of scale and reflection. Their sharply defined profiles are moderated by the active negative spaces between them, through which we perceive the ever-changing landscape of the harbour city. Buffeted by the unpredictable watery ground, they become a mesmerising force in unison with the sea.

Monuments for Fishes gently rocks with a magical stability, much like the balance required when fishing in a tiny boat but also marks the liquid beneath, the great ocean that fills our harbour and shapes the mythology, economy and geography of Sydney.

PROCUREMENT MODEL

Delivery by Lendlease.
CONCEPT
A commission exploring the site’s Aboriginal significance.

OBJECTIVES
This work will be by an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander artist and developed in consultation with local Aboriginal communities. It will tell stories of place using objects, landscape forms or other interventions. Stories can also be anchored by planting e.g. banksias, which held fire in canoes for cooking while also acting as beacons at night.

The preference is for a female led commission to reference the historical female leadership from Barangaroo, the woman.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
Limited Tender – Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander artists. Led by an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander curatorium working with the Barangaroo Curator. Delivery by INSW.
CONCEPT
To provide insights to both the maritime and Aboriginal histories of the site.

OBJECTIVES
A heritage interpretation of the Harbour Control Tower (HCT) that will reveal the maritime history of the Tower and express Aboriginal culture – past, present and future.

The interpretive work shall be based on design principles that demonstrate excellence and are of durable materiality. It should be designed in consultation with an artist with experience working in the public domain and a suitably qualified heritage expert.

While the work should be identifiable as an interpretive project from adjacent parklands, the design approach shall respect and complement the natural environment of Barangaroo Reserve.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
Delivery by INSW.

NB: Not funded by the Arts & Culture Levy but included in the Art Implementation Plan as a matter of completeness so it may inform nearby artworks to be delivered in the Barangaroo Reserve.
ARTWORK DETAILS
Jake Nash & Chris Fox, Moon Vessel, Wind Vessel & Water Vessel, 2027

ABOUT
Collectively Moon Vessel, Wind Vessel, Water Vessel is a First Nations-led design that acknowledges the complex kinship system between the land, people, and spirit. The three integrated artworks articulate interconnected areas across Harbour Park: the Moon Garden, Wind Garden and Water Meadow.

The artists explain that Barangaroo Harbour Park connects us to the water of the harbour, the sky above it, the wind that travels through it. The artworks lead the highly integrated narrative through the park, including the cultural and architectural shapes developed in collaboration with the landscape and architectural teams.

Moon Vessel is a suspended structure surrounded by water, connecting sky and water country, inviting people to gather beneath. It is an artwork born from the night sky, acknowledging the connection between the tides of the harbour and the moon’s cycles. Wind Vessel visualises the pattern of the wind, embracing stories, songs and language. It is a place of ephemeral collection and a gift from sky country that provides shelter and cultural exchange. Water Vessel offers an expanded gathering place. Its large aperture encompasses water, earth, and sky country. It looks out to the harbour and Me-Mel, connecting the park to other narratives that exist around the harbour.

Together the artworks are intended as living cultural landmarks embedded in the heart of the city.

CONCEPT
Artist/s will work closely with the architectural and landscape design teams to embed public art that is both site-specific and place-making.

OBJECTIVES
Given its location between the city and Barangaroo, public art will act as a portal into the new precinct. The location for a major public art installation is being developed as part of the revised master plan for Central Barangaroo.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
Collaborative process.
The artwork/s will be developed by the Aqualand design team working closely with the Barangaroo Curator.
Delivery by INSW in partnership with Aqualand.
YANANURALA: SITELINES AND CONVERSATIONS
A City of Sydney commission for Yananurala as part of the Eora Journey that combines two conceptual approaches into one project.

SITELINES

CONCEPT
Eight visual devices that frame and articulate the ‘siteline’ relationships along the Harbour Walk.

OBJECTIVES
Barangaroo will have two sitelines, Barangaroo to Pirrama and Barangaroo to Me-Mel. Sitelines connect the sites and stories along Yananurala to guide visitors and locals alike to understand Sydney in a way that First Peoples know and experience Country.

CONVERSATIONS

CONCEPT
Text and/or audio based installations that respond to the intimate, hidden histories of the Harbour at 12 locations along the foreshore.

OBJECTIVES
This category encapsulates intimate stories that do not classify as monumental in scale and expression, yet are no less significant and important. They may be told by inlaid texts in situ or through soundscapes, audio portraits and recordings of someone’s familial or generational memories. These conversations become the connecting experiences between monumental artworks, allowing the participant to deeply consider the interconnectedness of stories upon the Harbour.

PROCUREMENT MODEL:

Delivery by City of Sydney.
YANANURALA: THE HUNGRY MILE

A City of Sydney commission for Yananurala as part of the Eora Journey

CONCEPT
A major public art project recognising Aboriginal people in Sydney’s maritime history.

OBJECTIVES
The Barangaroo Public Art and Cultural Plan indicates that The Hungry Mile project is envisaged as a major art and interpretation project aimed at representing the economic and maritime history of the Barangaroo precinct and the involvement and contribution of First Peoples to this history. An opportunity exists to align The Hungry Mile project with Yananurala and the City of Sydney’s Eora Journey program, by working with First Peoples whose families were engaged in the history of the wharves in Sydney, and provide opportunities for local Aboriginal community members, writers, artists and designers to participate in the project.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
EOI, via City of Sydney.
Curated by Emily McDaniel.
Delivery by City of Sydney.
YANANURALA: BADU

A City of Sydney commission for Yananurala as part of the Eora Journey

CONCEPT
Badu (water) is an environmental project led by an artist in partnership with universities and marine institutes.

OBJECTIVES
Currently in early development, it will build on research to acknowledge Country as land, water and sky.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
EOI, via City of Sydney.
Curated by Emily McDaniel.
Delivery by City of Sydney.
CONCEPT
The Barangaroo temporary art and interpretation program (referred to as the Artistic Associates Program) will be strategic and flexible. Partnership opportunities will be investigated.

OBJECTIVES
To support local artists in developing their practices, and to activate the space year round. Temporary programs can attract new, broad and substantial audiences to the site.

PROCUREMENT MODEL
Procurement should be kept broad and flexible for curation i.e. delivered with a partner or integrated.

02 PROJECT GOVERNANCE
2.1 GOVERNANCE INTRODUCTION

An appropriate end-to-end governance structure is detailed in the following pages. A strict governance structure ensures:

- the fair and equitable selection of artists
- the professional administration of their contracts
- artwork delivered to a high quality, on time and budget
- mitigation of risks associated with the delivery of the artwork through appropriate risk management protocols
- consultation and engagement as required
- no surprises through ongoing consultation and dialogue with the client, relevant stakeholders and government instrumentalities, and other members of the design and construction teams

Barangaroo is a complex precinct with multiple bodies delivering works across the site. Art in the public realm is being delivered by INSW, City of Sydney, and Lendlease. In order to realise artworks of the highest calibre across the precinct, these groups must follow the same governance principles which include:

- artist briefs should be drafted by individual design teams or their Project Curator in consultation with the Barangaroo Curator, and must be submitted to the Arts and Culture Panel for endorsement
- proposals for commissioned works must be submitted to the Arts and Culture Panel to seek endorsement
- briefs and proposals must be signed off by INSW
- artists’ work must be approved in writing by INSW before proceeding to the next stage

Each group within the model has a clear and defined function and responsibility throughout the commissioning process to ensure that appropriate INSW reviews and approvals are integrated within any commission.

The commissioning process outlined in the following pages supports the approach recommended in the NSW Government Public Art Toolkit (2023), authored by Create NSW. The commissioning (section 3.1) and approvals (section 3.2) process outlined in the following pages applies to INSW only.

A separate commissioning and approvals process will be agreed between INSW and its Development Partners where relevant to reflect their respective Development Agreements.

STAGE 1
ARTIST BRIEF AND PROJECT PLAN

- Project Curator prepares artist brief, artist contract and project plan
- Project Curator in consultation with Barangaroo Curator forms the Consultant Group to manage the commissioning process

STAGE 2
ARTIST SELECTION AND ENGAGEMENT

Note: 3.1 outlines an indicative process and may change on a case by case basis.
STAGE 1 ARTIST BRIEF AND PROJECT PLAN

DELIVERABLES FOR PROJECT CURATOR

PROJECT PLAN
Detailed project plans which include a procurement model, planning approval pathway, estimate of costs and a delivery program will be prepared by the curator for each public art project. See Chapter 7 of the 2015 Art Plan for a guide to preparing the project plan.

STAKEHOLDER ENGAGEMENT PLAN
This Stakeholder Engagement Plan is a formal strategy to communicate with key project stakeholders in the development of commissions. It specifies the frequency and type of communications, contact persons, and approvals required.

ARTIST BRIEF
The artist brief will be a comprehensive document designed to inspire and challenge artists and establish parameters for the commissions. Chapters will include:
- context (the key information)
- heritage interpretation themes and stories
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Peoples engagement framework
- stakeholder consultation requirements
- site analysis
- technical specifications
- guidelines for use of sustainable and durable materials
- fabrication stages and requirements
- submission requirements for concept proposal
- selection criteria
- sample templates of budget and timeline
- research references
STAGE 2 ARTIST SELECTION

PROCUREMENT MODELS FOR COMMITTED WORKS DELIVERED BY INSW AND PROJECT PARTNERS

DIRECT COMMISSION

01 The design team appoint one or more artist/s

OR

COLLABORATIVE PROCESS

01 The design team appoint a Project Curator, who works with the Barangaroo Curator to identify a shortlist of artists.

02 Artists are sent a brief / information pack and invited to attend an interview. Project Curator and Barangaroo Curator interview each shortlisted artist.

03 Project Curator and Barangaroo Curator and the ACP makes a recommendation to INSW to commission one artist to proceed with the work. The successful artist is then awarded the contract.

EXPRESSION OF INTEREST (EOI)

01 Open call for artists to register their interest. The City of Sydney Yanunurala curatorial team reviews and presents suitable submissions to the City of Sydney Public Art Advisory Panel.

02 The City of Sydney Yanunurala curatorial team and City of Sydney Public Art Advisory Panel decide on a shortlist. The artists are sent the artist brief and invited to submit an initial concept, CV and examples of relevant works for a fee.

03 The shortlisted artists submit their concept to the City of Sydney. The City of Sydney Yanunurala curatorial team and project specific Evaluation Panel choose one artist to commission and proceed with the work.

LIMITED TENDER

01 An Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander curatorium is appointed to work with the Barangaroo Curator to prepare a longlist of up to twelve artists to present to the ACP.

02 The ACP agrees on a shortlist of three to four artists who are sent the artist brief and invited to submit a concept, CV and examples of relevant works for a fee.

03 The shortlisted artists present their concept to the ACP. The ACP makes a recommendation to INSW to commission one artist to proceed with the work. If INSW approves, the successful artist is then awarded the contract.

Note: Artist selection applies to all artworks commissioned on and from the date of this document by either INSW, Aqualand or City of Sydney.
STAGE 2 ENGAGING THE ARTIST

ARTIST MANAGEMENT

Once selected, the artist will be engaged, contracts negotiated, and scope of work agreed.

Artists often have a team to facilitate design and documentation as well as a preferred fabricator who will be responsible for the fabrication and installation of the proposed artwork. The artist may act as the head contractor, with all members of their team subcontracted to the artist. The Project Control Group (PCG) reserves the right to review the artist’s team and preferred fabricator prior to their engagement.

Alternatively, artists who do not have an established delivery team can be supported and advised by the project curator who can recommend fabricators and other collaborators.

It is the artist’s responsibility to hold all necessary insurances, abide by WH&S legislation, INSW’s WH&S policies and to have agreements in place with their sub-consultants.

For the selected artist, approval to proceed is granted in six stages. The artist’s fees are dependent upon approval to proceed at each stage. A sample payment schedule is shown below. The curator will determine the appropriate schedule per project.

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Deliverables</th>
<th>% of the Fee</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Signing the contract</td>
<td>5%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Approval of developed concept</td>
<td>5%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Approval of developed design</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Ordering the materials: on commencing fabrication</td>
<td>30%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>50% completion of fabrication</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>100% completion of fabrication</td>
<td>10%</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Installation, commissioning and handover</td>
<td>20%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The staged payment schedule is a guide for INSW to ensure robust management control via the PCG throughout the fabrication stage, minimising risk and ultimately ensuring that the work being delivered meets or exceeds expectations. The curator will determine the most appropriate payment schedule in the project plan for each commission.
STAGES 3, 4 AND 5

Artists will be required to submit material for approval at the end of each stage in order to be approved to proceed to the next stage of work. The deliverables are outlined below.

It is recommended that guidelines are provided to artists by the project team to ensure the material is delivered in a consistent manner.
STAGE 6 HANDOVER AND LAUNCH

Contemporary public artworks often blur the boundaries between architecture, landscape and art. When this happens, supporting information in the public domain is required to aid audiences’ interpretation of the work.

A sound communications plan can show how the art program creates value for the public, engages local communities and leaves a beneficial legacy.

It can also be argued that the commissioner has an obligation to the artists who have dedicated months or years of their time and energy to creating often very personal work to share with the public. Fascinating stories and imagery emerge from this process, and relationships with the creative communities are strengthened.

The communications strategy may include:

- Website: The site aggregates and displays online content, both text and images, generated under each artwork through the activated social media channels. Additional information about the program, links to the other artworks and artists, and links to the social media channels are available to visitors via other pages.
- Social media campaign: In addition to the site, a selective social media presence could be established to provide a home for publicly-generated content.
- The curator may be asked to meet with the INSW Communications and Engagement team at the onset of the commission to discuss a strategy for promoting the artist and the work. The launch event for the work will be developed in consultation with INSW.
- Any marketing communications or collateral about the work should be submitted to and approved by INSW before it is made public.
3.2 APPROVALS PROCESS
